LIVE VIDEO IS THE NEXT DIGITAL MARKETING OPPORTUNITY

THE IMPORTANCE OF DIGITAL VIDEO MARKETING

MANY BRANDS AND RETAILERS use digital video in their marketing and e-commerce efforts because video is one of the most effective ways to communicate brand and product stories. According to eMarketer, 93% of marketers used video for online marketing in 2013.¹ More recently, Retail TouchPoints found that retail executives rank video as a top-three marketing priority.²

Pre-recorded product videos have been shown to increase e-commerce conversions. Online shoppers who view product videos are 85% more likely to buy³ and 57% of consumers say that product videos make them more confident in a purchase and less likely to return an item.⁴ In addition, videos increase people's understanding of a product or service by 74%.⁵

THE NEXT OPPORTUNITY: LIVE STREAMING VIDEO

IN A RELATIVELY NEW but logical twist, many top brands and retailers have started using live video for marketing. The use of live streaming video is growing faster than pre-recorded video, at a rate of 42% versus 34% compound annual growth rate (CAGR) according to the Cisco Visual Network Index.⁶

One of the primary reasons for this growth is the deeper level of engagement that comes with live video. The authenticity of live video creates an emotional connection with a viewer that is difficult to make via other digital channels, resulting in increased viewing times. On average, live video is viewed longer than pre-recorded video (20 minutes versus 2–3 minutes). This deeper level of engagement helps brands and retailers cut through the marketing noise to reach their customers.

CORPORATE EXECUTIVE OPINIONS ON LIVE VIDEO

94% of executives surveyed agree that expanding the use of live, online video can enhance external communications⁷

72% executives say they prefer live online video to on-demand alternatives for use in business communications⁸

58% of executives say that live online video allows for more real-time engagement with an online audience⁸

54% of executives who view live video daily strongly agree that the technology can serve as a focal point for online interaction and community building⁸

THE BENEFITS OF ADDING LIVE VIDEO TO YOUR STRATEGY: AUTHENTICITY IN REAL TIME

WHEN PRODUCT EXPERTS and endorsers appear on live video, their passion for the brand and products shines through and makes a strong, authentic and emotional connection with the audience.

polished production. Live sessions are engaging because there are unexpected moments that demonstrate authenticity. Some of the most memorable moments during Brandlive customer events were unscripted, springing from the personality of the on-camera product experts or questions coming from the audience.

ADDING LIVE VIDEO TO THE MIX

BRINGS THESE ADDITIONAL BENEFITS:

Strengthens brand-to-consumer relationships

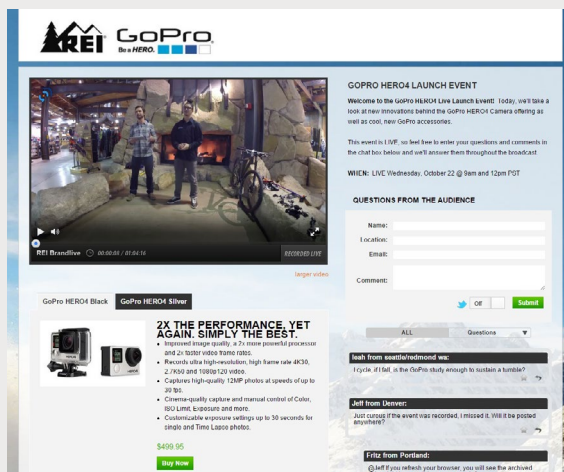

Facilitates brand and product storytelling

Results in longer viewing times than pre-recorded video

Brings the human element to digital media, putting a face to the brand

Activates brand advocacy

CASE STUDY GOPRO

BE A BRAND HERO

GoPro paired one of their top product experts with an expert from retailer REI to launch their HERO4 camera using live interactive video on the Brandlive™ platform. Instead of a studio setting, the broadcast was from the REI flagship store in Seattle, WA. Producing the event on the store floor, featuring knowledgeable and passionate personalities live on camera with audience interaction, created an authentic moment for both brands.

LIVE STREAMING VIDEO VIEWING

THE CONSUMER DEMAND for live digital video is real. Twitch, a website that streams live video of gamers and was acquired by Amazon in August of 2014, is a prime example. The company reported that in 2013 they had 45 million unique viewers per month who watched an average of 6 million total videos broadcast, resulting in 12 billion minutes of live video watched per month.⁹ While it can be argued that Twitch represents an example with a niche audience and content, gamers have typically been a harbinger of changing media habits and trends. Thus, Twitch's experience bodes well for the future of live streaming video viewership.

It was widely reported that millions of people attempted to watch the live video stream of Apple's iPhone 6 launch. Although technical difficulties marred that particular production, it still demonstrated

CROCK-POT

A NEW RECIPE FOR CONSUMER ENGAGEMENT

For the first time ever, Crock-Pot released a series of food products to complement their existing product line of slow-cookers. Using live interactive video on the Brandlive platform, Crock-Pot launched the product. Crock-Pot also generated valuable instant product feedback. Initially, consumers were worried about the nutritional aspect; but Crock-Pot was able to emphasize their selection of premium, natural ingredients and market the product as a wholesome alternative to eating out.

consumers' high demand for live product interaction.

Viewing time for a variety of other brands and retailers also looks promising. The Brandlive events that our brand-name customers produce typically result in an average of 18 minutes of viewing time. Over 2,500 branded events have been produced on Brandlive's platform, generating over 75,000 viewer comments and questions.

FACILITATING SOCIAL INTERACTION

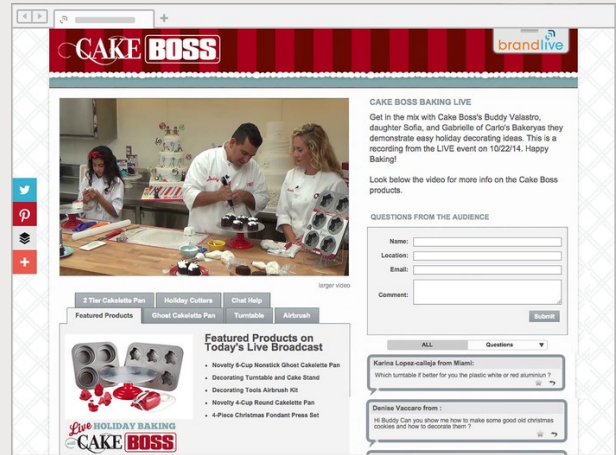

COMBINING SOCIAL INTERACTION with live video introduces real-time conversations, allowing product experts to engage directly with the audience to gather instant feedback; answer specific, in-the-moment questions; and empower audience members to connect with each other.

Real-time, two-way communication creates a true brand-to-customer conversation that is scalable. Brands not only gather customer comments and questions, they can respond instantly and visually. Consumers know that they are getting an experience specific to them and not generic product information created beforehand. When people watch live

CAKE BOSS

SWEET GLOBAL AUDIENCE INTERACTION

Buddy Valastro, the star of TLC's Cake Boss television show, used live interactive video on the Brandlive platform to host a web-based show where he demonstrated holiday baking tips for a global audience of over 3,000 people from 59 different countries. Brandlive's social interaction feature let audience members interact live with Buddy (1,900 comments/questions) and the platform's eCommerce feature allowed for direct sales of Cake Boss brand products throughout the event (242 product clicks).

ADIDAS

SPRINT TO COST EFFECTIVE PRODUCT TRAINING

Adidas Running uses the Brandlive platform to launch new products and train retailers around the U.S., educating them about the latest Adidas product releases and telling them the stories behind the products. For the Boost and Springblade product launches, 37 Adidas U.S.-based retail locations tuned into the broadcast to get the latest updates and learn the technical details about the new footwear and apparel.

INSTANT, VISUAL ANSWERS

BY COMBINING LIVE VIDEO with real-time interaction, the on-camera product experts can creatively and visually answer a viewer's questions by demonstrating the product. Instead of relying on a generic FAQ and product information, companies can answer real questions, from real consumers, in real time.

LIVE VIDEO INCREASES E-COMMERCE CONVERSION

A SUCCESSFUL E-COMMERCE strategy involves many elements that optimize a user's experience in a way that leads to a transaction. Product experts, questions answered instantly and access to detailed product information all lead to a better online shopping experience. Improvements in these areas increase shopper satisfaction and conversion rates.

Rockwell Tools has long used infomercials and home shopping channels to sell products. Television has its limitations though: Rockwell couldn't directly interact with customers and gain feedback. To build on their success with direct response, they added live interactive video to the mix for product demonstration and direct sales via the Web. Using the Brandlive platform, they've featured a number of their signature products and have held in-depth demonstrations and sales. Conversion rates have ranged from 11% to 33% during these live events.
